CEO ANNOUNCES NOMINATION OF GIS DIRECTOR TO NACo STEERING COMMITTEE

Finley to Serve on Telecommunications & Technology Steering Committee

DECATUR – CEO Burrell Ellis announced the nomination of Geographic Information Systems (GIS) Director Denise Finley to the National Association of Counties (NACo) Telecommunications & Technology Steering Committee. As a member of this committee, Denise will serve a one-year term where she will be responsible for reviewing all matters pertaining to telecommunications and technology policy, including the collection and utilization of Geospatial data, as it relates to counties.

As director of GIS for DeKalb County, Denise oversees the development of an integrated GIS, which links digital map features to database records describing property, infrastructure, sites, and facilities. The department is also responsible for managing multi-departmental GIS projects, such as the base-mapping project and the parcel conversion project.
